Abstract

There is a rapid increase in adoption of mobile technology for language teaching and learning. Mobile-assisted Language Learning (MALL) provides many avenues for any learner outside the constraints of time, place and time to learn. Mobile Learning, besides the convenience, offers instant, ongoing, and self-improvement in mobile language learning. Therefore, apps are developed increasingly for almost all kinds of English as a Second Language. This paper focuses on the classification of mobile apps based on the primary, secondary and tertiary learners. Moreover, various user characteristics, user requirements and implementation, analysis, evaluation of the mobile apps for language learning. There exists a few theoretical challenges, method, theory, and pedagogical factors that influence the current mobile apps. Since there are no developed to enhance the language skills of the learners, emphasis should be primarily made on the acquisition of language skills such as listening, speaking, reading and writing skills through mobile technology. Thus, the finding shows that learning skills are better acquired through apps than that of other language skills.

INTRODUCTION

One of the most attractive technologies in mobile technology which is termed as technology (computer or electronic). Several users mobile devices such as mobile communication and learning. The broad use of smartphones and different communication and Wi-Fi network has increased the traditional teaching method and learning process (Khalafallah, 2018). The current usage of mobile devices has led to the development of mobile applications for English Language Learning. Numerous apps are available for language learning to students through many sources for the Internet. Existing materials can be accessed easily due to the portability and convenience of mobile devices.

Moreover, it helps in the classification of apps to help users to identify the right of apps and decide which one to use. There is a lack of research about which apps are good and useful for a particular learner. The learners are divided into the primary, secondary and tertiary level. Apps are classified according to the prior assessment category of learners that includes children, teenager or primary level school students to the secondary level, college students and adults in tertiary level. The main objective of this paper are:

To put the learners to consider the difficulty in choosing the mobile English Learning apps.

To identify apps based on the learner level.

To identify the effectiveness of existing L2APP apps through mobile technology.

THE CONCEPT OF M-Learning

In the technological era, everyone has their own handheld mobile devices. Using these devices, with many users in common, they connect with people from anywhere in the world. Interactions of time and place people and/or exchange information with each other. The very term "mobile" stands for the "mobility" in the ability to move from one place to another. Mobile learning refers to the implementation of mobile devices in any form of media. The concept of mobile technology leads to the possibility and information available play a major role in the enhancement of English language teaching and learning (El-Hassan & Elmaghrabi, 2018).

The main characteristics of M-learning can be the absence of any barrier to any of the fields of the learner or students and the place and time for language learning (Khalafallah, 2018). The research in the domain of mobile learning studies is limited for anyone to serve as a mobile concept because of the complexity of new mobile devices for the student.

Generally, mobile learning can be defined as utilizing of the personal, portable and wireless devices such as the
