Research Methods for the Marginalized Staci B. Smith, Brian G. Smith, 2025-07-18 This edited volume explores how to effectively and ethically conduct social science research and work with marginalized and vulnerable populations Many researchers find themselves unprepared for the challenges of studying or working with populations that may be outside their personal expectations and experiences affecting their ability to accurately represent the lived experiences of marginalized and vulnerable communities Written by a diverse group of international scholars within the fields of strategic communication and communication studies this volume provides real world insights from researchers who not only have direct experience working with marginalized populations but many of whom are members of these communities Imperatives include critical lessons for access and accessibility in research Contributors draw on their own studies to guide readers through the main phases of research including study design data collection and data analysis The volume is especially suited as a supplementary text for researchers and students studying qualitative research methods in strategic communication and communication studies Handbook of Feminist Research Sharlene Nagy Hesse-Biber, 2012 The second edition of the Handbook of Feminist Research Theory and Praxis presents both a theoretical and practical approach to conducting social science research on for and about women The Handbook enables readers to develop an understanding of feminist research by introducing a range of feminist epistemologies methodologies and methods that have had a significant impact on feminist research practice and women's studies scholarship The Handbook continues to provide a set of clearly defined research concepts that are devoid of as much technical language as possible It continues to engage readers with cutting edge debates in the field as well as the practical applications and issues for those whose research affects social policy and social change It also expands on the wealth of interdisciplinary understanding of feminist research praxis that is grounded in a tight link between epistemology methodology and method The second edition of this Handbook will provide researchers with the tools for excavating subjugated knowledge on women's lives and the lives of other marginalized groups with the goals of empowerment and social change The SAGE Handbook of Qualitative Research in Psychology Carla Willig, Wendy Stainton Rogers, 2017-03-31 One of our bestselling handbooks The SAGE Handbook of Qualitative Research in Psychology is back for a second edition Since the first edition qualitative research in psychology has been transformed Responding to this existing chapters have been updated and three new chapters introduced on Thematic Analysis Interpretation and Netnography With a focus on methodological progress throughout the chapters are organised into three sections Section One Methods Section Two Perspectives and Techniques Section Three Applications In the field of psychology and beyond this handbook will constitute a valuable resource for both experienced qualitative researchers and novices for many years to come Disability Politics and Care Christine Kelly, 2016-01-15 Disability Politics and Care examines a provincial direct funding program to illuminate what happens when people with disabilities take control of their own care arrangements In addition to investigating responses from a wide range of stakeholders Christine Kelly reflects on the broader social and political implications of these types of programs She probes the divide that exists between rejections of care by disability activists on the one hand and attempts by feminists to value gendered forms of labour on the other Rather than trying to find common ground between these viewpoints Kelly explores how maintaining a tension between them could positively transform the understanding and practice of care Enlivened by the voices of disabled people attendants and informal supports this book uses one independent living program as a starting point for untangling much larger philosophical theoretical and material questions about self determination inter dependence governance and justice The SAGE Handbook of Social Science Methodology William Outhwaite, Stephen Turner, 2007-10-18 An excellent guidebook through different approaches to social science measurement including the all important route maps that show us how to get there Roger Jowell City University In this wide ranging collection of chapters written by acknowledged experts in their fields Outhwaite and Turner have brought together material in one volume which will provide an extremely important platform for consideration of the full range of contemporary analytical and methodological issues Charles Crothers Auckland University of Technology This is a jewel among methods Handbooks bringing together a formidable collection of international contributors to comment on every aspect of the various central issues complications and controversies in the core methodological traditions It is designed to meet the needs of those disciplinary and nondisciplinary problem oriented social inquirers for a comprehensive overview of the methodological literature The text is divided into 7 sections Overviews of methodological approaches in the social sciences Cases comparisons and theory Quantification and experiment Rationality complexity and collectivity Interpretation critique and postmodernity Discourse construction Engagement Edited by two leading figures in the field the Handbook is a landmark work in the field of research methods More than just a cookbook that teaches readers how to master techniques it will give social scientists in all disciplines an appreciation for the full range of methodological debates today from the quantitative to the qualitative giving them deeper and sharpen insights into their own research questions It will generate debate solutions and a series of questions for researchers to exploit and develop in their research and teaching 21st Century Sociology: A Reference Handbook Clifton D. Euthanasia Talk: Euthanasia Discourse, General Practice and End-of-life Care in the Netherlands Frances Norwood, 2005 In the Netherlands nearly one quarter of all people who die initiate a euthanasia request with their doctor yet 9 in 10 of those who initiate a request do not die by euthanasia Nine in 10 die instead of natural causes The Netherlands legalized euthanasia killing a person at that person's explicit request and assisted suicide giving a person the means to kill themselves at that person's explicit request by court decision in 1984 and again by legislation in 2001 With nearly a quarter of people who die in Holland not to mention their family members and health practitioners participating in this dialogue and so few participating in the act it begs the questions what are Dutch people talking about when they talk euthanasia and how does euthanasia talk impact the end of Dutch life After a 15 month ethnographic study of euthanasia and end of life care in the Netherlands with huisartsen Dutch general practitioners their end of life patients and their families I found two things First in practice Dutch euthanasia is more often a discourse than it is a life ending act a discourse firmly embedded in the cultural and historical contexts that make Dutch people Dutch Using a Foucauldian concept of discourse I argue that the Dutch have created a script that teaches citizens how to think and feel about death and ultimately how to die Second I found that euthanasia talk holds a wide array of meanings beyond the immediate the obvious planning for death One of the most important is to affirm social bonds and social life at the end of Dutch life People choose not to die euthanasia deaths because of the feeling of social connection that engagement in euthanasia discourse fosters Through engagement in euthanasia talk dying individuals maintain connection to family and society giving them something they need to remain living This dissertation is intended to provide ethnographic data not currently available on the modern day practice of euthanasia and to add to a growing body of literature on death dying and the role of the state

Sex Work Does Not Make Me an Indecent Woman Shonali Mona Choudhury, 2009

Pedagogy for Change Janelle M. Silva, 2010 Feminist Studies, 2003 Branding Miss G Michelle Miller, 2008

Many feminist organizations know just how hard it is to gain media attention for their cause This was not a surprise to members of the Miss G___ Project for Equity in Education when they began to lobby the provincial government to include women's studies in Ontario high schools To overcome this obstacle the Miss G___ Project has used creative eye catching images to brand its members as third wave activists who are approachable more ironically feminine than feminist catching the attention of a number of mainstream newspapers and magazines Yet is this the best approach for a feminist organization to take In this original and important case study Michelle Miller takes a critical look at the pros and cons of Miss G___'s media strategies She lauds the overall success of the group but argues that it is time for Miss G___ to rebrand its image and build its own media networks by using the alternative press and popular technology In doing so the Project can achieve its goal while aligning its vision with its politics
